

Dear Agony Aunt Rachel,

I'm 15 and feel really confused. I'm totally devoted to this guy in the year above me at school. We've been going out for three months and get on really well although we don't talk enough. I'm worried that he might be using me though. Last week at a party he tried to put his hand down my top. I know that my friends let their boyfriends feel them up, but I felt embarrassed and told him to stop. He said that he was just trying to show me how he feels about me, and then he got in a mood. I don't want to lose him but I'm worried that he will go off me if I don't give him what he wants. What should I do?

From Debbie

Dear Agony Uncle Mark,

I'm 16 and have been going out with a girl who is a year younger than me for about three months but we seem to be getting nowhere. I really fancy her, but neither of us seems to relax when we are together. Last week at a party all my mates were getting off with different girls but, after a kiss, my girlfriend just went cold on me. She doesn't tell me what she is thinking about. I reckon that she doesn't really like me that much or maybe she fancies someone else and is going to dump me. Should I dump her first?

From Dave